My opinion is

1) Higher income people should contribute more (i.e. 高收入者須支付較高費用和資助低收入者)

2) To encourage people to use private sector service, government can issue medical service coupon (醫療券), so that people can choose either

- public service, with lower cost but lower quality

- private service, with higher cost but better quality

No matter public or private service, people can still receive the same amount of subsidiary from government.

I will choose the option 社會醫療保障

I am against 個人康保儲備, because it does not enforce "Higher income people should contribute more"
