I am fine with the Mandatory Private Health Insurance which ensure the minimum standard and qualified health care service. I really appreciate with the similar health system in Taiwan. I hope that our SAR government could take into consideration and review the execution more carefully and apply it on HK society upon its real situation. However, as spoken in the consultation document, I recommend our SAR government could assist to migrate the existing private health insurance scheme into mandatory health scheme to those people who have voluntary health insurance. However, it is suggested that such migration should be taken care very seriously so as to ensure the original benefit the insured entitled from his/her personal plan. This migration should not make any increment on the premium on the insured who paid before.

I support the same premium paid by every people under the mandatory health scheme. As a HK people, I look forward to a better health care service when I require this service in case. Please take the sample of Taiwan as a good reference on our HK health care reform.

I have one question. How will the new scheme take care the people (like my parent) who have retired and unable to pay extra amount on the mandatory health scheme. Will they get any exemption from the new reform?
