I don't mind to pay for either the private or public medical insurance policy, but I hate to see a large portion of the premium paid adding to the profit line of greedy insurance companies. If the HKSAR govt. is willing to take-up the insurance's management & administration rather than simply give it away to a (or a few) commercial insurance giant, then I'll support the mandatory medical insurance scheme.

If the HKSAR Govt. really wants to deal with the medical finance issue, the Govt. need to break the closed circle of HK medical society by increasing the supply of medical doctors in the long run. Simple market force of Supply & Demand will bring down the cost of medical services (which largely is the salary cost of our "elite" doctors trained by tax payers) to the society of HK.
