Government official:

I am extremely disappointed with the www.bestrong.gov.hk website. It is another propaganda attempt for the government to take advantage of the good citizens of Hong Kong and try to force them into a public health policy reform that is immature and without any public discussion or consensus.

The whole policy in general seems to be for the government to escape responsibility of the general health care of its people, and try to give more businesses to banks, insurance and financial sector. Health care is a general responsibility of the government and should not be off loaded to the general public with any form of individual health or medical insurance.

It is even a shame to see commercial promoting such policies and those individuals that appear in commercials remind me a whole bunch of crooks that has stolen from Hong Kong society over a lifetime and disguise themselves as a bunch of soccer players.

Sincerely,
Andrew Tsai
