Subject health care financing

Most of the medical expenditure is spent on salaries, particularly the top level group. If 80% of the resources is allocated to just a group of people, it is unreasonable. Money from the government is not used on the actual service or purposes.

The government should be responsible for the benefit of aging population. These people have contributions to the society when they were young and they are taxpayers. The Hong Kong government should cover their benefits.

I do not support this health care financing plan. The Hospital Authority should reform and restructure their resources allocation first.
