Dear Sir/Madam,

I would say this is a good start to review Public Healthcare and Family Healthcare in public though it is a bit late, Moreover, any options even other than the 6 mentioned ones should base on and meet the basic needs of individual and their family members healthcare, no matter they are rich or poor. We need to compare other countries such as Australia, Japan, Singapore or even Mainland China to see what other options we can consider in future, to better utilise and motivate the available public and private resources.

Being a responsible government, she needs to redistribute the wealth of the community to meet her citizens future basic needs of education, housing, healthcare and social welfare, we cannot sacrifice one or the other in order to keep or improve the quality of current services. This is a basic human right !

Either by tax, by self-support/pay, by forced insurance or by social responsibility(individual/corporative contribution), or by donation in trust; we should need more time to think and compare about it before the public can have the consent in common the best option fitting HK SAR.

Therefore, how about an extention of 6 months collecting more data and feedbacks for discussion and comparison before we can make the RIGHT choice. More Haste, Less Speed.

Best Regards,
