I object to the compulsory health insurance proposal as it is just another kind of taxation. More important, we'll spend quite a significant proportion of the premium in the administrative charges which according to the MPF experience is quite unreasonable. On the other hand, it'll have a tremendous burden to the middle classes who have already contributed a lot in the taxation.

I'd like to suggest to increase back the commercial profit tax to its 2007-2008 level to contribute more to health care. I agree to increase the charges from government provided health care services while setting up a safety net to those who cannot afford. I also agree to have some tax exemption in order to encourage people to buy voluntary health insurance.

Thank you for your attention.
